1. The airfield is located at the northern edge of Gomel (52°25'N/31°00'E), Belorussian SSR, just east of the road to Kostyukovka (52°32'N/30°56'E). The field, which measured 2.5 x 2 km, bordered on a number of destroyed semi-circular buildings on the north and on swampy terrain on the south. The field had no railroad connection.
2. Destroyed buildings, which probably had been hangars, were at the northern edge of the field, two temporary quartering buildings were at the southern edge. No construction work was observed during the period ending in late 1948.
3. The field was occupied by about 10 biplanes which were used for training flights. Commercial planes occasionally made intermediate landings at the field.
